“ Kyle,

You were one of my best buds since high school. We had some very interesting times together over the past nearly four decades. I loved racing cars with you and all the other stuff we did growing up. Even the stuff that got us into a little trouble. It was all worth it. Even though you dated my sister. I wish you were here to tell those stories to my son now that he's old enough to hear them. You told them better than anyone. We were going to join the Army on the “Buddy System” until you injured your eye. That would have been an incredible life experience too. I loved sitting on my patio or anywhere, talking life and politics with you. Your passion, opinions and delivery were always enlightening and even entertaining. I admired your decision to go to school and become a respiratory therapist at that point in your life. I know it was extremely tough and I would have never been able to take on that challenge. But you were always very intelligent too. You loved your job and I could tell you were very proud of your accomplishments. I was very proud of you too. You were a unique soul in many ways and had so much more life to live....

I will miss you greatly, my friend – Rick

“ Kyle, We miss you and your voice. You're no longer here to say goofy, off-the-wall, "Where the heck did you come up with that?" things that made us laugh and sometimes made us laugh so hard we shed tears. You stood out from the crowd. You were one of a kind. We are so glad you found your passion in life and had experiences that changed your perspective on people and the world. Whether you knew it or not, you made a difference and we are still very proud of you. - Wendy & Greg
