“ We were so saddened when we heard about your loss. No parent should have to endure the loss of a child. I never met Maxwell, but it sounds like he brightened your lives and will continue to provide wonderful memories in the days and years to come. I know that you (Amie) are a strong person and wish you and your family the strength to get through this. Love and Prayers, Tammy

“ Max is now a special angel in heaven - he will brighten the days for all the angels like he brightened our days here on Earth. Our family will keep you all in our hearts and prayers as we cannot imagine the utter heartbreak you are feeling.

“ It is with great sadness that I am sending this. I have never met Maxwell nor any of the family, but I am terribly saddened by the tremendous loss your family is facing. My son went to school with Maxwell, although not the same grade, and continues to speak of him. I am keeping your entire family in my prayers and hope that you will find comfort knowing he is in heaven in the months and years to come. May God be with all of you at this time.

Sincerely,
Michelle Giza
