“ I went through pictures today that Devon and I had shared over our teen and early adult years. I was trying to find just one from a dance, the shop, a concert, or the Gratiot cruise that you were in. When I got to the end of the files I realized that you were much more interested in taking pictures of the kids than being in any yourself.

Thank you for opening your home to a bunch of teenagers who needed safe spaces and reminders that they were loved during their tough high school years. I spent entire summers under your roof and at your dinner table while I was growing up, and because of that I have lots of great memories of otherwise trying times.

I know how fiercely you loved Devon and Dana because I saw your worry and the lengths you went to keep them happy and healthy while we were growing up. It's not fair that they've lost you so soon.
