“ Happy father's day dad. I miss you so much today, my heart is breaking into may peices. I wish you were here. If only for onne day, one hour...but then i would never want you to go again. Mom is so sad. She works so hard to do what you think she would want her to do.....for the first time in her life :-) I know you are in God's lap and happy as a clam, I also know you miss us very much. I am very excited about being all together one day in heaven. The boys aren't around very much, and that makes me feel like they do not care about me...i know they do not care about me. But I wish they wold call Ma once a week....or maybe once a month. She say's she doesn't care, but I know her heart hurts because of it. If there was some way you could please tell her not to worry about it. And tell them to...call? I am telling on them :-) I love you dad. You are and always have been the only person in my life that I ever completely trusted. I am thinking about you today, more than usual, and i hope you are aware. Love you daddy, lots and lots.
