“ The one thing that I will never forget about my dad is that he was very smart. Even dementia had a hard time with my dad. Every time I would call, he would know who I was. Every time he went to his therapy sessions he was prepared with a cheat sheet. Even though Dementia did eventually take him away, I know he is in a better place. I think they need his intelligence up there. Love you Dad.

“ A fond memory of Uncle Frankie is that he taught me how to roller skate at our house on Greenway. Of course they were skates that attached to your shoe and locked with a key.

All my love, Cheryl (his niece)
