“ (Sigh) I don't know what to say man... I was just jamming music on mic with you the night you left us... 😞 it was nice because usually at 4 in the morning, it is just us...

We are the best of friends, and shared sooo much together throughout the last 25 years!! And I still can't bring myself to understand or accept the fact that you're gone... I love you sooo much man! I was your best man.. and I will always be! I would've done anything for you!!

Love to you Jake... Brother.. and your whole family.. I'll always remember you!

“ Jake was a big part of our stupid facebook group that turned into a core group friends that's lasted well over a decade. He was always irreverent and manic in all the best ways that made everyone laugh. Many nights were spent until 2-4am on Skype playing video games or just chatting- he was always had the energy of a big brother teaching you new swears or introducing you to cool edgy comics or music.

He sketched a lot of art in our group and this is just one of his masterpieces.

“ Jake was one of the funniest guys I knew, he was kind hearted and great to talk to. We were all close, spending hours talking about our lives back in the OBC days. We always admired his energy and his fantastic taste in games and movies. I'm going to miss you brother.

“ I know we didn't talk very often, both so busy with being parents, and adulting, but I have so many memories with you from growing up, I can't just pick one. It is such a heavy thing to hear about, but you were the reason I was so into anime, you were the person who truly got me into it, and I am truly thankful for it. We still have the stuffed dog you gave Alexander for his first birthday, the Croagunk stuffed animal is still played with by the boys, the Kanto Pokemon badges are proudly on display with all my other stuffed animals. I remember hiding out with Tommy and you, always dreading what "scary" movie you were gonna put on when it was your turn to put something on, watching Case Closed, DBZ, just talking with you about games, comics and everything else in between and watching Amy grow into such a beautiful person. You always had my back whenever things got rough with anyone, and while we didn't always see eye to eye or get along as kids, you were such a ray of twisted humor and sunshine in so many people's lives. You are truly missed and loved by so many, a life gone way too soon. I love you Jake, I know I didn't say it nearly enough, but I love you so much. Thank you for being you and being such an amazing big brother. -- Love your baby sister, Rachel.
