Jacqueline was known as a neighborhood mom as she opened her home and heart to many of her son's friends, so many in fact, that she started numbering them. She enjoyed playing board games and doing crafts with her grandchildren. She also enjoyed spending time with family at holidays, especially Christmas. She was an avid painter and enjoyed making hand crafted cards for her children, grandchildren and others. She had a passion for Madam Alexander dolls, shoes and handbags.

She will be remembered for her loving heart, generous nature, kind smile and all her desserts.

In lieu of flowers, the family prefers donations to be made in Jacqueline Boehler's honor to American Lung Association.

“ I don't know if this is a memory but Jackie painted that beautiful photo of herself. Jackie used to take me to Baby Heaven on my birthday to get a doll I remember going with her to Baker shoe store to buy shoes then going back next day and returning them. They knew her by her first name at shoe store. I guess this is why Jackie and I both loved dolls and shoes even when we were older.
