

Joe Sul

December 20, 2014

Age 29.

Beloved son of Dr. Yi and Kyu Sul.

Loving younger brother of Caroline and Douglas Sul.

A dreamer.

Please share memories of Joe.

Tribute Wall

“ Not a year goes by that I don't think back with fond memories of Joe. I considered him one of my best friends; he was there for every hangout at my house and always the first to arrive. We would hang out and chill more than everyone else, he'd be the first one there and the last one to leave after helping clean.

Joe taught me lots of tips on being frugal that I still cherish to this day. I still miss him.

Joseph Burrell - March 02 at 03:57 AM

“ Joe Sul

October 23, 2023 at 04:00 AM

“ Joe Sul

January 06, 2023 at 05:24 AM

“ Joe was always laughing and joking with me while we were at Wayne State. He shared his love of video games and anime with me and we could talk for hours. He always had a eccentric sense of humor which was always welcomed when we met. Rest well my friend.

Tremain Holt - June 14, 2015 at 09:29 AM

JB

“ Joe was a close friend to me. He was always the first person to call and see if we were hanging out, the life of any game we played, and he always had the best stories. Even now I still can't fully process that he's fallen asleep. I'll always have a place in my heart for Kojo.

Joseph Burrell - June 13, 2015 at 11:38 PM

CA

“ Joe, you are the only Uncle to buy your 4 yo niece pearl necklaces. I will save them for her when she gets a little older. She says she misses stealing hiking poles from Uncle and wants to do it again. She also asked if you're in heaven and I told her yes.

I remember the day you were born. On valentines day, I was supposed to go to the planetarium with 3 other classmates for high ability. That night it snowed a lot and while backing out of the driveway, we got stuck. Our mom couldn't get us out and tried to push the car. I got to school late and missed the trip. I was so bummed. But the next day, you were born and that was more exciting than the planetarium. After all, I wanted a girl and Doug wanted a boy and Doug won. Where's the bunk bed?

When I was in college, I got roses from a guy and carefully dried them and kept them in my room. One day, for whatever reason, you took those flowers, and ran all over the house scattering petals everywhere. My mom said you made such a mess. You didn't know why you did it, but I was so angry at you! Then mom had to 'remind me' that I didn't like the guy that much anyways. Was there something you were trying to tell me?

I had a great time playing carcassonne, smash up, ticket to ride, pandemic, and mage wars. I thought if you could find a girl who liked mage wars, then it would be a match in heaven. That game was impossible! But you were so patient teaching it to me. I'm surprised you had even more games in your arsenal which we never played before. Its amazing you could match the games to the player. I missed playing with you this past Christmas.

You are missed because you're loved. I wonder if you knew how much you were loved? I love you Joe.

Caroline - January 05, 2015 at 09:12 PM