“ Uncle Joe:

From the day I came into this world, you played an important role in my life.

You helped raise me, taught me a few Polish phrases, fueled my creativity with LEGO and (on some rare occasions) played "bad cop" to Auntie Sylvia's "good cop."

You loved to tell the story of the day you told me "no" and give me a littlest, tiniest slap on the hand when I disobeyed you as a child, and I cried and cried for Auntie. I must have heard it from you 100 times. It never got old... because you loved to tell it.

You always had a good story to share... or a really bad joke to tell. We could be in the middle of a conversation, and you would bust out a joke. Laughter was our second language.

I've always been told that I have "the gift of gab." I like to think that all those stories and jokes you told wore off on me growing up... and that I have you to thank for that unique talent.

Because of you and Auntie, I turned out alright.

Thank you for everything.

P.S. – While I know you're already making everyone laugh up in Heaven, here is one more knock-knock joke you can take with you

"Knock knock."

"Who's there?"

"Little old lady."

"Little old lady who?"

“ A wonderful Uncle that looked after my daughters when they were young. Uncle Joe gave them swing rides, played the piano, and told jokes that made everyone laugh. Singing songs at Christmas was so special. Sitting at the kitchen table watching him play pinochle with my mom and dad was priceless. Everyone had such a good time. We will miss those baby blue eyes and fantastic smile. You will always live on in our hearts, never to be forgotten. Much Love and Hugs, Jesse and Diane Malczyk

“ Uncle Joe was my Mother's brother. What wonderful, happy, childhood memories I have of him. Beginning with his awesome playing of Christmas carols on Grandma's piano on Kirkwood. Everyone would gather around him and sing ! He smiled. We sang. Everyone was happy . Thank You, Uncle Joe ! And thank you, Aunt Sylvia, for making Uncle Joe so happy, so many years !
