“ Josephine was a former next door neighbor we both had grown to like very much. She always wanted both myself and my husband to stop by, after we moved to a different area but we'd stop by many times just to say 'hello' and to see how she was doing. Always a smile on her face.. A perky lady who always dressed neat and enjoyed having conversations with us. Many times, she would call so my husband would stop by her place to either shut off her outside water in the winter or turn it on in the spring. But we both knew even though she needed this done, at the same time she also looked forward to our visits, so that was nice and also enjoyable. She was very proud of her place and took great care of it both inside and out by hanging fresh flowers in heavy pots outside. Had to install a special sturdy nail into the brick along with support wires, so the pot wouldn't sway in the wind. At least she managed to live hundred years among friends and neighbors as well as her family. She will be missed for sure and is sadly missed already. May her soul rest in peace.
