“ Oh Megan, you beautiful soul you. It took me a few days to come to terms with reality and even now I find it almost impossible to believe. I was told to pray for you, but I refused to do so because then that would mean it was real. I don't want you to be gone, I need to talk to you, I need to tell you what you meant to me. I've known you for awhile now but in the last few years you've become one of my best friends and confidants. You were a shining light, not just in my life but in everyone's who knew you. Lucky strangers felt your amber energy instantly. It didn't matter what we did; we shared joy, whether it was dinner and a movie, painting, photography, music or traveling to Zion we explored, laughed and cried. What hurts the most is we still had plans, we still had places to visit, mountains to explore, food to eat, jokes to tell, road trips and camps to put up. I'm going to miss you Megan Hellebuyck, because friendships as pure as yours are rare and precious, and for that I will always love you.

These are the last photos I took of Megan when she came to visit me before she left for her trip. I took her to Joshua Tree, as soon as we arrived she began to cry because of it's beauty. That's the type of person she was, she appreciated and loved Mother Earth. She told me she didn't want to leave, looking back now I wish I could have made her stay.

My sincerest thoughts and prayers go out to her entire. Now and forever I am here for you.

“ Megan (My Mole Sister),
I am forever grateful for the years that we spent together in middle school, high school, college, and beyond. Thank you for all the times you brightened my day and made me laugh until I cried, the countless sleepovers and pranks we did together, summer days by the pool and camping up north, the time when you drove without a license and got us all sent to the police station (ha!) or even the time when the hood of your car came flying up as we were driving down 18 mile. I will never forget you, because you are unforgettable. Love you so so much my moley poley baby! XO

“ Megan, you were my absolute favorite person in my life. You were so beautiful inside and out, an amazing soul. I will always think of our amazing memories together and will never forget our laughs and cry's and our talks about muffins. You were such a good rapper. You had the best smile and most caring eyes. I don't really have the right words because I never thought this day would come. I send my love and prayers and deepest sympathy to your beautiful family. Love and miss you forever.
