“ RIP Paulee. You were a jerk sometimes but we loved you anyway. You will always have a special place in our hearts. You sure made our camping trips fun! I can hear the song burn it to the ground playing and you up there acting like a fool dancing on the picnic table. You will be missed. Until we meet again my friend... <3 xoxo

“ Paul and I had a conversation just a few weeks ago... It was him reaching out to me about wanting to do landscaping services with the company I work for... Then the conversation went into him giving me words of wisdom and encouragement over a personal matter I was dealing with... He always knew just what to say to make things better... I will treasure the many fun times out and about with friends and celebrating our Birthdays together just a few years ago... And even last year when he smashed a piece of birthday cake in my face at Winners... His last words to me were, "I didn't leave you... I'm still your friend." I'll never forget you ever in my lifetime... You will be in my heart always... RIP my good friend. 🙏❤️

“ Still hard to believe that my beloved godson is forever gone from this life. I can still remember when his mom, Elaine, came home from the hospital with this little bundle of joy back in 1966. I was overwhelmed with joy when she asked me to be his godmother. I took that title seriously. I have so many special memories of all the times we spent together. He was a pistol at times and a handful to be around. I spoiled him when he stayed with us every summer for about 5 years. Cooked him his favorite meals, gave him money for the arcade and catered to his every whim. Paul and Bob would stay up late watching The Three Stooges after I put the kids to bed and I went to sleep. I had to holler out to them to keep it down because they were laughing so hard and making those stooges sounds. Sadly, then he got too old to continue that yearly visit. I sure missed him when he left.

Bob stood up to Paul and Cindy's wedding. That was a special event for both of us. Bob felt so honored to be a part of the wedding. We always had so much fun at his annual 4th of July parties. So many times Paul would just drive out here to just sit around and talk. I really loved to have conversations with him about everything under the sun. Bob and I always enjoyed his company. My kids loved his sense of humor and his joking around. Oh, life with Paul wasn't always picture perfect. He did screw up a few times. One Sunday while he was staying with us, we went to church and while we were gone, Paul took our boat out without permission. He broke the starter. Bob was going to strangle him. We sent him home that day. Bob would always remind him of that incident, and we laughed about it, but we didn't laugh about it then.

At my surprise 60th birthday party, the first person I saw out in front of my son's house, bigger than life, waiting to be first, was Paul wearing that big old smile waiting to hug me and wish me a happy birthday.

I held him in my arms 🤱 when he was a few days old for the very first time and now I will hold his memory in my heart💜 forever. I loved you Paul, from day one. I may not have told you that enough recently. I hope you knew it. 😭💔🙏
