“ As part of one of my classes, I had to look at General Motors' 2005 Annual Report, and I saw a picture of Ms. Neeru in the document. I wanted to see what she was up to and found this obituary page. I'm sorry for your loss.
In her picture, she's wearing almost exactly what Heller An Shapiro described below.

“ I am a person with type 3 OI and Neeru and I are very alike even in size, she was the very first person with OI with whom I came in contact with when I became a member of the OIF in 2004, and since then she has served as a role model for me as to what can be achieved inspite of having OI, we were the two 'Indian girls' in the OIF, and though not frequent correspondents we did keep in touch from time to time. To say I am shocked and saddened is an understatement, Neeru will always remain ALIVE as long as memory lasts! May God give you strenght, peace and Very great COURAGE to carry on as Neeru herself would have wished you to.

“ Eventhough I was not fortunate enough to know her for long, we first met in october 2008 during the wedding. she came across to me as a person who pocessed so much of positive energy & zest for life. I remember her participating in all the events & how excited she was dancing thru the nite & enjoying every bit of it. when we came to US, she extented her hospitality & caring attitude which will be remembered always. Trust me, she was the true role model for anybody who had a chance to meet this wonderful woman. she will always live in my heart & would be remembered for the pride she got to the family & to herself amidst all the challenges she faced. Neeru di, love u always & miss u.

“ We were so sorry to hear of Neeru's passing, she was such a good person. Our thoughts and prayers go out to Neeru, her family and frinds.

I had the pleasure of working with Neeru at GM for several years and was always struck by how positive and energetic she was every day. Her pashion for life was truly amazing and rubbed off on many of those fortunate enough to work with her. Neeru, in addition to her day job at GM, helped to improve accessibility to GM facilities, dealerships and the GM vehicle fleet through her efforts on the GM Affinity Group for Persons with Disabilities. We will all miss her dedication to making the world a better and more accessible place, God Bless, GT

“ Sorry to hear about the passing of Neeru. It's good to read how Neeru excelled in life, despite having a disability. But, isn't it good to know that the holy writings extends out a hope to all of mankind. It's found at Isiah 35:6, it says "The lame one will climb up just as a stag does". This transition will take place under peaceful conditions known as paradise. If you would welcome more encouraging information go to www.watchtower.org

“ I had the honor of working on a General Motors committee with Neeru to address the needs of persons with disabilities for a number of years until my retirement in 2003. She taught me a great deal. One consistent lesson is that no matter your economic status, mental or physical ability, environment, etc., your attitude toward life is the key to living a positive and meaningful existence. Neeru always had a positive attitude, loved life and advocated for others to make the world a better place. She made a difference in my life and will not be forgotten. As we celebrate her life, may the wonderful experiences we remember with Neeru, bring comfort to her family and friends during this difficult time.

“ Neeru will be greatly missed through out the OI Community. I will always remember being on the OI Board with her and the great debates we had but I will also remember the great talks we had and her presenting me the Thelma Clack Volunteer of the Year award in 2006 at the OI Conference. Neeru may you rest in peace.

“ I will remember Neeru shaking her hair and showing off her manicure and shoes, and those bright silk blouses she always wore. Her determination, professionalism, helping others achieve an education through her scholarship fund, inspiring others to be independent, and of course her fashion lessons! My condolences to all her friends and family, and the many people she touched. Her big smile and enthusiasm will be missed.
