“ Mary,

I am so sorry for your loss. Someone sent me this when my father past...I read it often, and it always comforts me after reading:

I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean. She is an object of beauty and strength. I stand and watch her until at length she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come to mingle with each other.

Then someone at my side says: "There, she is gone!"

"Gone where?"

Gone from my sight. That is all. She is just as large in mast and hull and spar as she was when she left my side and she is just as able to bear her load of living freight to her destined port.

Her diminished size is in me, not in her. And just at the moment when someone at my side says: "There, she is gone!" there are other eyes watching her coming, and other voices ready to take up the glad shout: "Here she comes!"

“ We are thinking about you and our prayers are with you and your family during this difficult time. I know what it is like to lose what I think is the single most important compass in our life. I know your mom was that to you too, and with this loss comes so many layers of heartache. Please know our hearts are open to giving you anything you might need.
